

ALEXANDRIA.

FRIDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY S.

THE RICHMOND Dispatch having exhausted itself in its vain attempt to disprove the wisdom of the GAZETTE's adherence to true blue, old time democracy, and its condemna tion of the modern article of so called de mocracy which the editor of the Dispatch and some other people in Virginia have adopted, has availed itself of outside, but weak assistance. The many readers of the GAZETTE know that if all the democratic newspapers in Virginia were as plain and outspoken as it is, the State would have been saved a great deal of trouble, to say the least, and the national democratic party, their late defeat; for had the members of the Virginia delegation to the national democratic convention told that convention what the GAZETTE had told them, Mr. Hill would have been nominated, and, had he been, the result proved he would have been elected. If all the democratic newspapers in Virginia had, as the GAZETTE has done, endorsed Rev. Dr. Hoge's truthful assertion, that "what is morally wrong can not be politically right," the State debt would not be, as it is now, after all the injury and disgrace of vainly attempted repudiation, larg er than it ever was before, and no nearer as amendments to the sundry civil bill the settlement than ever. If all the Virginia House bills appropriating $5,000 for the surdemocratic newspapers were like the GA vey and plans for a bridge across the East. ZETTE, few Virginia democrats would have endorsed the civil service rules, which the President could have abolished by a stroke of his pen, and which Mr. Daniel has now, when too late, denounced in the Senate; nor would Virginia democrats in convention assembled have declared for free whiskey, but for a tax on the necessaries of life; nor would the democratic party of Virginia next fall be compelled, as now seems highly probable, either to take the field as the repudiation party of the State, or else to follow the Virginia republicans into debt paying as, in an evil hour, it followed them into "readjustment." But, why continue the story? It is all the same throughout the chapter-The Dispatch was all right a few years ago, when it "kept company" with the GAZETTE, and the sooner it abandons its new high tariff and repudiating associates, the better it will feel, and the better it will be.

In his speech in the U. S. Senate last Wednesday, Mr. Daniel said:

"My objection to the C.vil Service Commission is based upon the bedrock princi p e that it is not a thing that was ever contemplated by the fathers of our Republic The Civil Service Commission is a crystalli zation of executive power without executive responsibility. The Constitution has put executive power in the bands of the Presi dent, and in certain cases to be provided for by Congress, in the hands of the courts and the President's Cabinet; and the Senate, as the President's adviser, with the President, the courts, and the Cabinet, constitute the sole constitutional repositories of executive

These are words of truth and soberness with which the readers of the GAZETTE have long since become familiar, and with which most of them, though not quite all, entirely agree. The only thing Mr. Cleveland could now do to help his party would be to abolish all the civil service rules; which he has the power to do. If then some democrat in Congress would introduce a resolution to abolish the civil service law, and he and all the others were to put themselves on record as in favor of it, the party's chance for regaining control of the government four years hence would be greatly improved.

THE NEW YORK Herald says: "We have not heard of a democratic Congressman or candidate being shot in the South." No, for have any of them excited the eamity of a desperado by having possession of evi dence that would send him to the penitentiary, and by threatening to use it. The Herald also says: "Nobody, so far as we have heard, has filled the negro's head with notions of assimilation and social equality." If the Herald would send a truthful correspondent South during an election campaign it would have its ears opened. Why, even Mr. Cleveland invited Fred Douglass, so Fred says, to all his grand receptions. And finally, the Herald says: "The negro's horizon is limited, and it is the folly and inhu manity of the Southern white man which keep it so." And the Herala says this though it knows that for twenty years the white people of the South have willingly taxed themselves to pay almost the entire cost of instructing the negroes, who, in some of the Southern States, compose the larger part of the population. The Herald's re cent assaults upon the South are fully as gratuitous and almost as virulent as those of its chronic South-hating neighbors.

THE NEW YORK Sun, in speaking of THE NEW YORK Sun, in speaking of the failure of the recent street car strike in Brooklyn, says: "The executive board of the knights, which has been completely ignored in the negotiations for a cessation of the knights, which has been completely ignored in the negotiations for a cessation of the complete in city and the name of the curst. hostilities, is creesfallen over the result, and it regards it as a severe if not crushing blow to the organization in Kings county. It is predicted that within two years there will not be a union road in the county." If the suffering caused by strikes were borne by those who order them, they would be few and far between. Unfortunately, however, it falls almost entirely upon the men who obey the orders.
